Where It Begins

Seńákw is a living village built on connection and continuity, where every partnership and every space contributes to something larger: a future rooted in purpose and place.

The Shape of Señákw

- 6,000+ rental homes: designed for families, singles, and elders alike, fostering an inclusive community where everyone belongs.
- 200,000 SF of commercial space: shops, offices, and gathering places that spark connection and contribute to the rhythm of the village.
- Living culture: public art, ancestral design, and Skwxwú7mesh-led programming bring story and spirit into everyday life.
- Sustainability at scale: powered by renewable energy, with green corridors that protect and restore the land.

The Setting

At the foot of the Burrard Bridge, in the heart of Sḵw̱ú7mesh territory, a new village is taking shape. Seńákw has always been here—in the land, the stories, and the people. What's new is the chance to share it.

Created by the Sḵw̱ú7mesh Úxwumixw (Squamish Nation), this is a purpose-built community shaped by connection and care for what's ahead. Its first phase introduces over 20,000 square feet of thoughtfully designed retail, inviting businesses to thrive where community and commerce meet. Lined with pathways and plazas, these retail spaces open onto a lively village, welcoming residents and visitors to gather and explore.
